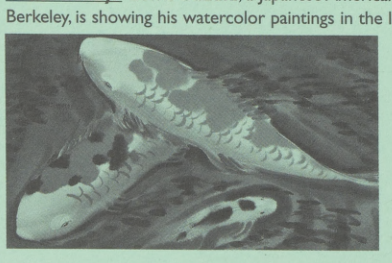
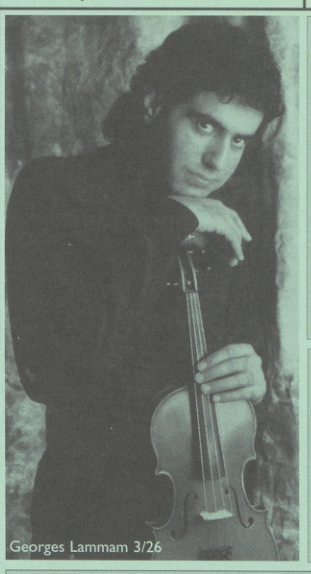
En Las Paredes / La Peña Art Exhibits March & April 2005

In the Lobby: Lewis Suzuki, a Japanese American peace activist from Berkeley, is showing his watercolor paintings in the lobby through April 30th. With bold use of color, his paintings show both beauty and peoples' everyday lives. Public Reception: Sat. March 26, 6-7pm



In the Cafe: Siempre La Lucha: Between the weight of the Honduran national debt and the pressure of "free trade" policies, campesino farmers are increasingly bearing the burden of producing inexpensive food for the cities of the global North while at the same time stuggling to feed their own families. Writer Michael Courville, and photographer, Jennifer Tong, combine the words of the farmers with images from their daily lives to provide a unique vantage point for considering the contradictions of poverty and struggle in a world of plenty.

In the Theater: Group show celebrating International Women's Month.



Georges Lammam 3/26

AfroCuban Music Youth Ensemble

Directed by Marco Diaz & Saul Sierra starts up again on Tues. March 8, 2005. Open to instrumentalists & vocalists ages 10 - 18 For more information & registration: (510) 849-2568 x16.

NOT OUR PRESIDENT!

March 19th March and Rally to Oppose Bush Policy in Iraq/Building Unity in the Global Anti-War Movement

The A.N.S.W.E.R. Coalition has called for the March 19/20 Global Day of Mass Action. This is the 2nd anniversary of Bush's illegal war against the people of Iraq. More than 100,000 Iraqis have died and more than 1,400 Americans have died. The U.S. government is spending 5 billion a month in its occupation of Iraq and taking billions from domestic social programs. La Peña will be organizing a contingent for the March 19 demonstration. We plan to meet in front of the La Peña mural and ride over in BART together. Please visit our website www.lapena.org for details and join us!
